

RAISING THINKING CHILDREN & TEENS

GUIDING MENTAL AND MORAL DEVELOPMENT

New ways of seeing how children and teens learn, what holds them back, and, most importantly, what encourages them.

New understanding of what it takes to motivate children and teens (and adults).

New help for learning blocks, and underestimations of one's (everyone's) abilities.

Give your children and teens the boost they need, see how they can learn to learn.

Help children and teens develop: mental intelligence (i.e., thinking about thinking, organizing, planning, decision-making skills), and moral intelligence (i.e., good judgment).

Add to children's and teens' special skills, help see and develop their (and your) abilities and talents.

Teach them to write and to think clearly and well, no matter what their present levels of ability – basic, advanced, or even unknown.
